

American Historical Periodicals from the American Antiquarian Society

This archive contains nearly 200 titles, starting in the Colonial era, moving through the Civil War and Reconstruction, and into the 20th century. These periodicals show how the significant events and major issues were presented and received by the people, providing a counterpoint to the major newspapers. As many of the periodicals were aimed at particular audiences, alternative views and arguments can be found on the same topics.

Many of the events and issues covered in these periodicals were influential in the course of America's development, and using this archive can help researchers analyse the effect they had on the culture, values, and national identity.
